Studies suggest reading has many benefits to our well-being, including at work. Reading improves your ability to concentrate and helps ease stress. There's a great variety of literature, and it is easy to find something to read, that suits your taste from a broad selection. Non-fiction books can help you develop your professional skills, while fiction lets you take a break from work and unwind. So why not try and pick up a book? Maybe you could visit the library together with your coworkers?

Activate your reading muscles by doing the exercises! You can do the exercises in any order you want. After finishing an exercise, tick the box. When you are done with the challenge, have your colleague sign the form — this is a great icebreaker for talking about reading.

Enjoy reading as you work yourself into better
reading shape!
