

1. Pölönen introduces 12 different future skills. Which of these skills are you teaching currently (in the context of your subject(s))?

If you are not a teacher, please choose the skills that you think are visible in education currently.

- ☐ Communication and storytelling
- ☐ Passion and character
- ☐ Curiosity and experimentation
- ☐ Perseverance and patience
- ☐ Technology and the future
- ☐ Compassion and honesty
- ☐ Moral courage and ethics
- ☐ Critical thinking and interpretation
- ☐ Creativity and improvisation
- ☐ Problem solving and adaptability
- ☐ Entrepreneurship and team work
- ☐ Well-being and self-knowledge

2. Choose one of these skills and reflect how you teach it currently (in the context of your subject(s)).

If you are not a teacher, think about and describe how are future skills included/shown in education currently?

3. Which of these skills do you think would be most relevant to teach (in the context of your subject(s))?

If you are not a teacher, which of these future skills are most important to learn.

- ☐ Communication and storytelling
- ☐ Passion and character
- ☐ Curiosity and experimentation
- ☐ Perseverance and patience
- ☐ Technology and the future
- ☐ Compassion and honesty
- ☐ Moral courage and ethics
- ☐ Critical thinking and interpretation
- ☐ Creativity and improvisation
- ☐ Problem solving and adaptability
- ☐ Entrepreneurship and team work
- ☐ Well-being and self-knowledge

4. Why do you consider these skills as the most relevant future skills (in the context of your subject(s))?

If you are not a teacher, please describe below why you consider these skills most important to learn.

5. Come up with one concrete idea and describe how you would develop education to involve future skills?